Abstract

This agreement includes both general and specific objectives. Of the specific objectives the exchange of human resources for health includes an agreement on recruitment, which should be in accordance with the national health and development policies and legal and regulatory framework of the contracting parties (A1).

The rights of workers under this agreement include the provision of equal employment opportunity in terms of pay and other employment conditions such as access to training and career development opportunities. Human resources for health recruited from the Philippines shall enjoy the same rights and responsibilities as provided for by relevant ILO conventions (A2)

This MOA is valid until terminated by either party by giving a written notice through diplomatic channels prior to the intended date of termination (X).
