Abstract

A Committee called the "Collective Labor Dispute Committee" is formed for the settlement of collective Labor Disputes. It will be operated by the MoHRE. It includes; the Undersecretary of the MoHRE, Supreme Court judge, Representative of the Chamber of Commerce, Representative of the local labour committee and Representative of the Labor Relations Department. The committee established by this resolution shall have the authority to examine collective labour disputes involving labour rights that the Ministry has referred to, provided that there are more than fifty workers involved and that an amicable resolution has not been reached between the parties to the labour relationship.
